TWO WEEKS FOR XMAS HOLIDAYS IN GLENDALE

School Board Has Busy Session at Intermediate
Last Night

ARCHITECTS PRESENT
Doran Street School Is Given
Another Teacher Begin in February

At the meeting of the board of education Tuesday evening at intermediate school, a hearing was given to representatives of two firms of architects, Allison & Allison, and Jeffery & Schaefer, both of Los Angeles. The firm last named designed the Broadway school in this city.

The board, voted to have the city schools close for the Christmas holidays on the afternoon of Tuesday, December 20, not to open until January 3.

A delegation from the Doran street school, composed of Miss Lois Hatch, principal, Mrs. A. H. Brown, president of the Doran street Parent-Teacher association, and Mrs. Florence Wintersgill, appeared before the board and asked for the appointment of an additional teacher at that school when the next semester opens in February. The request was granted and a teacher will be assigned to a small room which was not designed as a classroom but can be utilized as such.

The board also made an additional appropriation of $500 for library purposes, to be expended for books and maps. The library fund in the school budget, was based on last year's attendance and on that basis, the board appropriated, when school

BUILDING PERMITS FALL OFF LITTLE IN NOVEMBER

Total to Noon Today Shows
$503,260 for November, 1921

Building Inspector Marek and his staff of officials and assistants are yawning and complaining that business in their department is "poor" and even members of the city council and the mayor are worried over Glendale's future for the building permits for the month of November have only reached the total of $503,260.

To the layman, this would seem an unusually good total but to the residents of Glendale who remember the mark for last month this total seems unusually low. The total for the month of October was $634,180. Of course the question, "why have the building permits in Glendale fallen so far below last month's standard" has been answered satisfactorily, for statistics from all over the United States show a similar drop during the holidays but nevertheless, the officials of the city are feeling blue.

CREDIT ASS'N START FUNCTIONING ON MONDAY NEXT

Prospective Members Urged to Join at Once to Make Ass'n. More Effective

C. E. Neale, president of the Glendale Credit Association, announces that the organization has almost collected the amount set as a working fund at the organization meeting held recently. He says that all members who have not paid their entrance fee can do so by mailing a check to him to cover the amount and made out to the Glendale Credit Association. Prospective members can also join by applying to Mr. Neale, who advises that all members contemplating joining the organization has functioned for a while and the information gathered by it increases in value the entrance fee will increase.

The association is about ready to move into its new quarters in the Citizens' building and F. H. Pilling, the new secretary, will be on the job Monday morning.

PLANTERS IMPORT BUGS.
HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 30.—His full name is Cyrtorhinus Mundulus, but they call him Cy for short. He's only a bug, but he was brought here all the way from Queensland by the Hawaiian Sugar Planters Association for the purpose of preying upon and if possible exterminating the leaf hopper which was formerly such a menace to the sugar cane crop. Cy has made good, too, thereby justifying his costly importation.

Perhaps You Agree With Sentiments of Mr. Foley Tonight

Perhaps you feel this way, too. Here's the way James W. Foley expresses it in "The Listening Post" tonight:

"I'm sick of the Roscoes and Fatties and mush, and all the sad, nasty, unsavory slush."

And after he has recounted some of the twaddle that has been appearing in the press from day to day Mr. Foley asks the question: "Who's got the dementia, the fools or the press?"

An editorial, "Men Without Vision," is worthy your attention this evening. It deals with the discussion occasioned by the conference in Washington and deals with it in a straightforward manner. You will find in it an expression of opinion.

Henry James in his comments on the day's news writes of the national council of teachers of English and quotes this phrase:

"If you know something and can't tell it, you are a dummy; if you know something and can only half tell it, you are a cripple. Don't be a dummy; don't be a cripple."

Della Stewart says that education consists in knowing what to learn, so you get rather conflicting thoughts on the subject of education and English.

It's a good editorial page, carefully edited for your consideration. Make it a habit to read it each evening.

LOITERERS HERE REPORTED TO POLICE

Several reports were made to the police Tuesday evening of suspicious men seen loitering in the neighborhood of business houses and residences.

Officers investigated these reports but could find no one. G. W. Anderson reported that he saw a man behind the Glendale Bakery on East Broadway and asked him what he was doing there. The man, according to Mr. Anderson, could give no reason for being in the neighborhood. Mrs. Crawford of 800 South Central avenue, reported that a very suspicious looking Mexican had been loitering near her house for some time.

Benjamin Hampton Gives the Public an Analysis of Movie Industry and All Its Workers

Independent Producer Issues Statement Defending Greater Part of Motion Picture Industry, Admitting
There Is an Element Worthy of Censure

By BENJAMIN B. HAMPTON

Millions of people of various ages and stages in life give more enthusiastic admiration and affection to the heroes and heroines of the screen than is accorded to all the philosophers, educators, religious leaders and statesmen of America and Europe combined.

Whether they realize it or not, millions of folks are modelling their lives on the portrayals of characters presented by their favorite picture stars. The screen play has become a profoundly important message of education in manners, morals and art.

These are the entirely human reasons why the great, big, emotional public is so thoroughly angered when one of its screen favorites is charged with having fallen short in private life of the high qualities portrayed in picture characters by the players. The motion picture producer, responding promptly, retires a former favorite to obscurity. Just at this time the American people are in a state of confusion regarding their picture heroes and heroines. One of these favorites, Roscoe Arbuckle, has become involved in a notorious affair which has been given the widest publicity.

A brood of ugly stories have taken definite form. Some of them have come into the light so that they can be killed.

Americans fundamentally believe in fair play. The American public wants to do the fair, square thing by the motion picture industry. It wants to know whether or not it is justified in retaining its high opinion of the men and women of the screen.

These lines are written for the purpose of telling the facts and the truth that rests on the facts.

Here in Los Angeles live nearly all the motion picture players. Here are several thousand actors and actresses, big and small, and more than a score of thousands of other men and women employed in the picture colony.

There is a small fast set in the picture colony. No doubt of that. Nor is there any doubt that this fast set represents a very small percentage of the whole. The overwhelming majority of stars, leading men and women, character players and minor part players, directors, technical men, writers and camera men are clean, decent, hard-working, kindly people who will check out very favorably in manners, morals and ethics and in religious, educational or commercial standards, or in citizenship generally, with any group anywhere.

Los Angeles is the greatest tourist city on this continent, and every visitor to Los Angeles is eager to visit the studios and hangars for every scrap of personal information concerning picture favorites. No player of prominence can keep his or her affairs from the news sleuths or the gossip purveyors.

The public is interested in every detail of their lives, the color of their motorcars, their costumes, the surroundings of their homes. Nothing is too big or too little to be uninteresting.

The result of this situation is that the movie player has about as much privacy as has a gold fish in a glass bowl at the corner of Broadway and Forty-second street, New York.

The facts in Los Angeles most emphatically prove that the public is justified in believing in its screen favorites—not in believing that they are gods and goddesses, but that they are live, virile, honorable human beings.

This great group of specialized talent has been assembled within a very few years. Six or eight years will cover the greatest portion of the movement. The wonder and glory of the motion picture colony is that with it thousands of members brought together in such a short time from all over the earth and from various sections of society, there should be so few black sheep.

CHAMBER MOVING TO ELKS MEMORIAL FOR NEW QUARTERS IN CITIZEN'S BLDG. ABSENT BROTHERS NEXT SUNDAY

Secretary Rhoades Believes
Moving Will Consume 1
Hour and 15 Minutes

The Glendale chamber of commerce will informally take possession of its new quarters this afternoon. "We'll move this afternoon or 'bust a string," said Secretary Rhoades. "In fact we're rolling up the rug in the old home already. Our sleeves are up and we are going right at this moving business. How long will it take us to get things over to the new home? Well, let me see. Judging from the way we have started out it ought to take us about an hour and fifteen minutes. We're some hustlers over around these diggins, we are. Just tell the folks that the 'big move' will be opened about the 15th of December." Someone remarked that from this the formal opening promises to be "some" event.

The painting of the new rooms was finished Tuesday and painting the entire building will be finished in about a week. The interior electric work has been finished and workmen are now engaged in wiring up the building.

The citizen's building is a class-A structure and is one of the finest in Southern California. The delay in finishing it was caused entirely by the lack of the material to arrive on time. May, May & Hellman have charge of the construction of this block.

PUT OFF ANSWER TO LETTER; IN TROUBLE

A few minutes after detectives had left the police station Tuesday afternoon on a trip to San Gabriel to arrest W. B. Rose on a charge of giving a worthless check to the hardware firm of Neale & Gregg, in September, the object of their search walked into the Neale & Gregg hardware store and offered to pay the amount of the check. When informed by C. E. Neale that he was too late and would have to make the settlement with Police Judge F. H. Lowe, he seemed quite surprised. According to Mr. Neale the check was given in payment for the construction of a garage under the supervision of Mr. Rose. Mr. Neale says that he had written several letters to Rose and asked him to settle the claim and that he refused to answer these letters. Rose was released on his own recognizance by Judge Lowe to appear in court on Thursday morning.

RELIGIOUS WAR.

AGUAS CALENTES, Mexico, Nov. 30.—Religious warfare has broken out here anew. The American consul here was preparing a formal demand for reparations covering alleged damage to an American protestant church, alleged to have been stoned in rioting.

Bishop Valdespine of the Church of Guadalupe, answering the consul's protests, issued a statement blaming the protestants for precipitating the trouble.

TWELVE STUDENTS INSTANTLY KILLED

RED BLUFF, Cal., Nov. 30.—An autobus carrying about 14 students to the Red Bluff high school was struck by a south-bound Southern Pacific train shortly before noon today. Twelve of the students were killed, and others are in the hospital, where no hope is held out for their recovery.

The bus was struck near a crossing at Proberta. The train was making about 45 miles an hour at the time of the crash, and the bodies of the students were strewn about the tracks for a distance of 200 yards.

OFFICIALS TO HAVE SESSION WITH SALT LAKE ROAD HEADS

Plan to Secure Electric Light Handle Passengers and Freight

Plans for electrifying Glendale avenue have not been dropped, according to City Manager Reeves. A committee composed of Herman Nelson, manager of the Glendale Trust and Savings bank, Mayor Spencer Robinson and City Manager Reeves will hold a conference Thursday with officials of the Union Pacific railroad in regard to electrifying the road.

This has been one of the dreams of the residents of Glendale. The Salt Lake railroad has a franchise to use the right-of-way over the street and has a depot on North Glendale avenue. The road uses the Glendale right-of-way for freight traffic only. It has been suggested to officials of the road and the Union Pacific, owners of the Salt Lake system, that the system be electrified, and extended to handle passenger service between Glendale and Los Angeles and to supply transportation for residents of Sunland and Tujunga.

The matter of electrifying the Salt Lake system was taken up at a recent meeting of the Glendale Avenue Improvement association and a petition to the city council asking that organization to assist in securing this improvement was adopted. In stating their reasons, members of the association said that Glendale avenue is at once a residential street and a business street and is an important part of the city's highway system and the use of the street by the Salt Lake road for a freight right-of-way tends to detract from property values. It is stated that property values on that street have been decreased 25 per cent on account of the steam railroad system using it for a freight right-of-way.

Property holders feel that if the street is to be occupied as a railroad right-of-way they should be entitled to the maximum service in the matter of the road handling both passengers and freight traffic and that the only logical way to render this service to them is for the road to electrify the system and develop it as a traffic artery.

SHRINE CLUB MEETS THURSDAY NIGHT TO ORGANIZE

Will Perfect Body and Discuss Plans of Regular Meeting at Home

The Glendale Shrine Club will hold its first meeting on Thursday night in the new quarters of the Chamber of commerce rooms on Brand boulevard and all Shriners in Glendale, Eagle Rock and Burbank are invited to attend whether they have received notices of the meeting or not.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the organization of a Shrine club here for social purposes and practically every Shriner in this city has signified his intention of becoming a member.

Eagle Rock and Burbank are within the territory of the new organization and members of the order in those two towns are requested to attend the organization meeting Thursday.

There has already been considerable talk among the prospective members of securing separate quarters for the organization and some talk is heard of a building.

OFFICER STEIN WAS PAINFULLY HURT

Officer Stein of the Glendale police department fell from the steps of a Pacific Electric car this morning and was painfully bruised. He was taken to his home by Charles Guthrie who later reported the accident to the police department. According to Mr. Guthrie, Officer Stein had just boarded the car to attend the coroner's inquest over the death of Loren Prescott who was killed by an automobile Monday night. The car started suddenly and threw Stein to the ground. While his injuries are painful none of them is serious and it is believed he will be able to return to duty within a few days.

GLENDALE'S MASONS HONOR JOHN HOBBS NEW INSPECTOR

Following Master Mason
Degree, Banquet Is Given by Unity Lodge

Unity Lodge F. & A. M. of this city was host Tuesday night to honor John Hobbs of this city, who was recently appointed by the Grand Lodge of the state of California as inspector for 59A Masonic district of California, which includes the lodges of Glendale, Eagle Rock, Burbank, Van Nuys and San Fernando.

A lodge meeting at which the Master Mason degree was conferred upon one candidate was followed by a banquet over which H. P. Goodwin, master of the lodge, presided, acting as toastmaster, assisted by Dwight Stephenson.

After dinner, addresses were made by Charles Lindell, inspector of the 54th district, and Mr. Leland, inspector of the 60th district, also by a past master of the Santa Clara lodge. Rev. C. M. Calderwood was also a speaker in the round of greetings and congratulations, to which Mr. Hobbs responded in a speech in which he expressed his pleasure over the honor which had been bestowed upon him, giving credit to Master Goodwin and Mr. Stephenson who attended the meeting of the Grand Lodge and who, on finding that a new district was to be created, recommended Mr. Hobbs to the grand inspector.

Mr. Hobbs reviewed the history of the San Fernando valley, much of which he had witnessed. In the early days, he said, when the country was sparsely populated, there was need of fraternal organizations, but now each settlement has grown to a prosperous city and it is natural that fraternal organizations should take root and flourish. While all are good, the Masonic fraternities are the best, he declared.

Visitors were present from Van Nuys, San Fernando, Eagle Rock, Burbank, Gilroy and other towns of the district and it was a very enthusiastic affair, in which the Masons of Glendale and who, on finding that a new district was to be created, recommended Mr. Hobbs to the grand inspector.

GRAND VIEW VOTED ANNEX TO GLENDALE

New Territory Comprises
About 500 Acres of Land
Near Burbank

The annexation election held yesterday in the Grand View district resulted in the annexation to Glendale of about 500 acres of land between Raymond avenue and the Burbank city line and San Fernando road 300 feet beyond Mountain street. Out of the 90 voters in the district, there were 77 votes cast, 45 for annexation and 32 against it.

The annexation of this territory has long been the subject of debate and has caused two previous elections. These elections were failures and on the petition of several property owners to the city council of Glendale, the election held yesterday was called. At the time of filing the petition another petition to annex to Burbank was filed. This matter was taken to court and it was decided that in the event of calling an election, priority should go to Glendale as that petition was the first filed.

The annexation will enhance property values considerably. By annexing the new territory has gained assurance of light, power and water, in addition to school facilities. One subdivision is already on the market and property owners in the tract were numbered among the voters who favored annexation and signed the petition asking that an election be called. Other tracts will be opened immediately.

WILL EXPLOIT OLD GOLD MINE MORMONS QUIT

John D. Reavis of This City
Visits Site With Party of Engineers

TO BEGIN OPERATIONS

Ore Averaging $800 to Ton
Is Found Where Mormons Once Worked

Rivalling the history of the Peg Leg mine with its fabulous story of wealth, is the report that a well-known Glendale man has found one of the richest mines in the state. John D. Reavis of 328 Arden avenue, is the man who has become an owner of the post producer.

The property is known as the Alpha mine and is located in the New York mountains, 30 miles inland from Goff's station on the Santa Fe railroad. The obscure location and very great elevation, ranging from 6,000 to 7,000 feet, largely accounts for the belated find.

This property is one which attained fame among the Mormons at the time they inhabited the region around San Bernardino. Its contribution of wealth to the stores of the Mormon church, 50 years ago, was one of the wonders of the early times. Burro trains that packed the ore to the smelters were finally abandoned on account of the attacks of the Indians and finally the fame of the property died down. Records of its wealth disappeared after the Mormons left California for Utah.

Recently a prospector came to Glendale with some of the ore from the Mormon workings. He has known Mr. Reavis, who is manager of the Glendale Realty Exchange, for 25 years and prevailed upon him to visit the property for an examination. Mr. Reavis is an ex-mining engineer, a mining engineer living at Columbus and Vine streets, to accompany him. He also secured the co-operation of Ovilla Brunet of San Fernando, to drive the party to the mine.

At Mojave the party was joined by James L. Sears of Gold Run, Calif., father of Ralph Sears, a mining engineer of much experience. At Daguerre the party was joined by Wesley W. Warren, a mining engineer of Seattle. The party spent two days at the mine and at the end of that time returned to Glendale where the assays just made show that ore bodies of great size, containing values up to $800 per ton are blocked out in turn. Right at the mouth of the tunnel the party found the old amalgamation pans used by the Mormons to treat the rich silver chloride ores. They also found the old huts built of stone and the crude hoisting plant operated by an old-fashioned horse turntable. In speaking the mine Mr. Reavis said:

"I entered the tunnels under the guidance of Mr. Sears and Mr. Warren, two men of vast mining experience. I was first interested and then amazed at the mineral in sight. The tunnels contained ledges that literally glistened with mineral content. Finally I become so interested in following the veins that I wore out the knees of my trousers climbing through narrow passages. I found in some places the air so bad that the candle flickered and then went out, and was then warned by the engineers to start for the mouth of the tunnel."

"We found slopes 75 to 100 feet long where the Mormons had extracted the ores but strange to say the workings were still in rich ore and gave evidence that the Mormons must have left on short notice. Evidently the old workings have been visited by many other men since the Mormons left, but none of these people has the slightest idea of the conditions we have uncovered. We have secured a deed to the property and will begin breaking down and shipping ore at once."

KNIGHTS PYTHIAS HAVE CHARITY BALL

Tuesday night, the Glendale Lodge, No. 331, Knights of Pythias, entertained. R. G. Loucks was in charge of the program and offered a snappy evening for the assembled knights.

Following is the program: Piano solo, "Polish Dance," Brother George N. Hinsdale, P. G. R.; Slit of Hand, Brother Dr. J. A. Hana of Seattle lodge; Reading, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," Brother Bert E. Peterson, G. R.; violin solo—selection from "William Tell," Brother Robert G. Loucks, S. R.

Mr. Loucks talked to the knights on the Law of Harmony and after completing his address the subject was discussed. At the next meeting of the Lahala Temple of Pythian Sisters, a large class will be initiated and officers will be elected.

On Saturday night the Knights of Pythias bureau of relief will give its annual charity ball at 230 South Spring street. The proceeds of this ball are to be used in relieving the distress of Pythians living in Southern California.

BREAKING EVEN IS NOT GAMBLING

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 30.—Gather around closely, gents, and let Prosecuting Attorney Mueller, of St. Louis county, give you a definition of gambling. He is replying to a query from Sheriff Willmann as to "what is gambling?"

"Well, sheriff," says Mueller, "it's about like this: If a man plays a game of chance and gets back more or less than he puts up, he's gambling. If he gets back just what he put up, that's not gambling." Now, let the defense contend that their clients "broke even."

HEAD OF STANFORD SEES BIG SUCCESS

Dr. Jordan Declares Arms Parley Is Bound to End in Finding Ends

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 30.—The Washington conference on limitation of armaments is bound to be successful, in the opinion of David Starr Jordan, noted peace advocate, who has just returned here after a lecture tour of California, Montana and Idaho educational institutions.

"Japan," said Dr. Jordan, "will ultimately do whatever Hughes asks, but the Japanese army and navy factions will exert every effort to make some modification in the present program. Saving one's face in the most important act in traditional diplomacy."

Dr. Jordan declared he is greatly encouraged by the fact that Viscount Takahashi, recently appointed premier of Japan and a personal friend of Dr. Jordan, is a man "well-known to be opposed to war and waste—being a successful banker."

"Racial expansion," said Dr. Jordan, "is never an excuse for conquest of arms. Even the Shantung and Siberian questions would be settled by Japan in a few months if we would only let her."

There is only one way to save China, according to Dr. Jordan, and that is "to let China get up and show that she is worth saving."

"The only way to make Germany less dangerous to France," he said, "is to cooperate in reconstruction of Europe. We shall probably have to cancel the war debts, but not until we get peace in Europe in exchange for them."

"Considering both Japanese and European problems, the outcome of the conference cannot help but be good," Dr. Jordan concluded. "It will puncture war scares and make plain that whatever happens in Asia, the United States will send no troops to rectify it."

BUILD A PEACE ARCH ON BOUNDARIES IS BRYAN'S HOPE

Instead of Victory Arches, He Suggests All Nations Put Arches on Lines

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (Copyright, 1921, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—When the arms conference adjourns, if it succeeds, as now seems certain, an effort will be made by historians to distribute credit among those who have paved the way. When that time comes Argentina and Chile will be remembered as pioneers. Nineteen years ago they agreed upon a navy holiday of 18 months—a small holiday as compared with the present proposal, but it was a seed sown.

It will be remembered that Congressman Hensley of Missouri was also a pioneer. He introduced a resolution for a naval holiday. But in a great game-like this everything looking toward peace is aided by everything that speaks in the language of peace. Argentina and Chile launched an idea when they built upon the boundary line between the two countries an heroic statue of peace called the "Christ of the Andes." The tunnel between Argentina and Chile now formerly crossed the ridge of the Andes about 2500 feet above the level of the tunnel. It was worth climbing over the ridge to look upon this impressive symbol of peace—the prince of peace.

Only recently the United States and Canada joined in the building of a peace arch on the boundary between the state of Washington and British Columbia. One does not need to be gifted with the spirit of prophecy to foresee the erection of similar peace arches over all of the important thoroughfares between the two countries.

It is too much to hope that the time will come—why not soon?—when France and Germany will unite in building a peace arch on the boundary between the two countries?

In Berlin a monument was built of captured cannon and in Paris they have the Arch of Triumph. An arch of peace on the boundary line will be even more glorious, for the words of "Milton," peace hath her victories no less renowned than war.

SENATE MAY CLASH OVER AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A clash between the senate and President Harding is certain if the executive tries to establish his hoped for association of nations on a set of unwritten "gentlemen's agreements." The mere suggestion that the association might function without a written constitution has outraged those senate constitutionalists, who are very jealous of the senate's part in foreign relations. Many senators would regard an attempt by Harding to bind the United States into an association by mere gentlemen's agreements as an invasion of the senate's prerogatives.

BRENKMAN MOVES TO LARGER STORE

Mr. Brenkman of the Brenkman Electrical and Toy Shop, 1510 South San Fernando road, wishes it announced that he will move today to 1524 South San Fernando road where he hopes to be able to accommodate his customers to a better advantage. He will divide his store, using one side for electrical appliances and the other for toys. The interior will be finished in pearl gray. The phone number will remain the same—Glendale 603. Mr. Brenkman suggests that it is a good plan to get your orders for either toys or electrical Christmas gifts in early, as the wholesalers report they are almost sold out. Several of his customers are ordering their gifts and putting down a small deposit to hold them until the Christmas season.

MORGAN SUSTAINS INJURIES TO FOOT

While endeavoring to adjust one of the wheels of a trailer that the machine he was driving was pulling, Morris W. Morgan, a driver for the Tropico Pottery company, was seriously hurt Monday afternoon. The wheel he was adjusting fell upon his foot, breaking one of the bones. Mr. Morgan will be confined to his home for some time as a result of the accident. For several weeks he has been driving a large motor truck between South Glendale and San Bernardino for the firm by which he is employed.

DR. AND MRS. MARPLE RETURN THURSDAY

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Marple, who, for the past month have been enjoying a vacation in the hills back of Sierra Madre, and at Balboa Island, expect to return to their home on Palmer avenue on Thursday evening of this week. Overwork was the cause of Dr. Marple having to leave, but the enforced rest has done him a great deal of good.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Rasmussen and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Marchant of 1405 South San Fernando road, returned Monday from Antelope valley, where they went in search of the elusive jackrabbit. They brought a whole sackful of the long-legged critters back with them, but there are a few left in the valley, they say.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lovell of 114 West Laurel street, enjoyed a trip to Bellflower Sunday, where they passed some time with relatives and friends.

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Snuggs of Los Angeles and Fred Fry of Glendale enjoyed a motor tour of the San Fernando valley Monday.

The George V. Black Pharmacy, corner San Fernando road and Los Feliz, has completed the installation of a new show window. The entrance door is now located on Los Feliz road.

After enjoying a week-end visit with friends in Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley and family have returned to their home at 1361 North Columbus avenue.

The Russell Furniture company, 1529 South San Fernando road, is making elaborate preparations for taking care of the coming Christmas rush. This firm believes that the coming holidays will find them doing the biggest business they have thus far known.

Work on the new store building that is being put up at 1410 South San Fernando road by Charles Hipp, is progressing rapidly. In about three weeks Mr. Hipp will move his bakery into the new room.

SHOP EARLY

"Shop early" is the good advice given by the popular druggist, E. E. Brown, proprietor of the Park Avenue Pharmacy, corner Park and Brand. And to back up his advice, Mr. Brown has laid in a good supply of goods that will make acceptable and useful Christmas gifts. His motto is "the right kind of goods, rightly priced, and service," and, judging from his increasing business, he is certainly making good in every respect.

BUSY AS BEES

"Busy as bees"—this can aptly be applied to Hall Bros., the genial proprietors of the South Glendale Garage. They are having a big run of work and have been working overtime to take care of the rush. But they don't mind this; they pride themselves in giving service, and their work always stands the crucial test. Their business is rapidly increasing. Later on it may be necessary for them to have larger quarters.

Sale of Christmas Seals To Start December 1st.

Bang! Did you hear that? That was the starting gun for the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls, the school boys and girls, for the church people of every denomination, the club women, the American Legion and every other organization in Los Angeles county working for the health and development of all the children in the county.

What are they starting to do? Why don't you know? Sell Christmas seals to aid in the fight against tuberculosis in beautiful Los Angeles county!

Do you know there are two hundred children in Los Angeles county and city who this past year have had the benefit of two months in the lovely preventorium in the San Gabriel mountains? That they were all definitely undernourished when they went, but came away with many pounds gain in weight? They had had the most scientific care which a doctor, four nurses, dietitians, physical director, play ground director and dentist could give them—and all because some other boys and girls and men and women had bought Christmas seals last year.

Do you know that the Los Angeles county health department is establishing dental clinics in the school districts in the county as fast as they can get the funds for doing so—the main source of income being the sale of Christmas seals?

You may wonder where the connection between anti-tuberculosis work and dentistry comes in. Suppose a child has decayed teeth and our surveys in the schools thus far are showing that 90 per cent of them have—can you imagine the decayed food and germs a small tooth can contain? Why wash dishes if the clean food is coming in contact with such teeth? In swallowing, the oozing pus from these teeth is carried to the tonsils and from the tonsils it is absorbed into the lymphatics, thence to the heart, joints and other tissues. These things break down the resistance and the child is in a receptive condition for a tuberculosis breakdown.

What can be done to build a child up nutritionally if he is absorbing pus continually? Let us first correct the defects and then we will have a firm foundation on which to build.

Not alone do dental defects cause physical disability, but mental conditions as well. Many a backward child has cleared up after having his teeth fixed. The chaplain of San Quentin recently said he had no doubt that one-half of the men who found their way into that institution could have been saved a life of crime had their teeth and other defects been cared for as children.

So why wait 'till it is a case of patch work? Let's take preventive measures. Let's give the kiddies a chance! Don't start them out in life handicapped. Get behind the seal sale and every body over the top! December 1st to 25—let's go! Who'll win the race?

FIND BODY YOUNG WOMAN IN HOTEL

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 30.—The body of a young woman who had been strangled to death was found locked in a hotel room here today. The assailant stole the hotel register to conceal his identity. The woman and man, registered as husband and wife, entered the hotel Tuesday night and were assigned to the room where the girl's body was discovered. The murdered woman was found lying on a bed, her unclad body welled and blue from violence. The room was in disorder.

RAILROAD BOARD CONSIDERS WAGE CUT

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

Just as soon as I can scratch up a little spare time I'm going out and pick me an eligible corner, and open up a little store and get rich. I've found the secret. Most any corner will do by which people walk, and most any line of goods that is needed in the neighborhood. Whether it's tenpenny nails or corn plaster makes no difference. I'll sell 'em as fast as two boys can wrap 'em up and a blond cashier can take in the money.

"You know that red-headed boy o' mine?" Old Man Merriwether asked. "Well, he's getting rich."

So I went around to the little store to which his fond father staked the red-headed kid a year or so ago and watched his system. It happens to be a drug store. I used to visit this particular drug store now and then in search of various things. It was always small, dark and mean-looking. I used to go in and stand around. Then I'd hammer on the counter with my quarter.

And at last a silent, beetle-browed, ragged-collared man would reluctantly approach me from the rear of the store. He either looked at me from under his spectacles or from over them. He was that sort of man. Usually he had something in his hand. He wore soft carpet slippers. He got shaved Wednesdays and Saturdays and collected antique vests. I would tell him what I wanted and he would get it for me and look out of the window when he told me the price, and then retire to his hide-hole behind the prescription screen. Just as sociable as a curly wolf.

"That store," said Old Man Merriwether, preening himself, "invoiced $1750 when I bought it, and the boy cleaned up $12,000 on it last year. Just personality, sir. Just personality."

Personality—nothing! Anyhow, not the sort of personality taught in forty lessons by mail, in each of which you are told to dominate the other guy. Young Man Merriwether is just a good natured, grumpy, open-eyed, happy sort of a kid. His clerks—he has a platoon of them now—are of various ages, but they are all good natured and grumpy. If they haven't got what you want they'll tell you where to go get it.

Any one—granted a knowledge of bookkeeping and buying—can get rich that way. For any one would rather buy of a happy, sunny, welcoming sort of a clerk than of a grouch. It's queer so few storekeepers have found that out.

REAL ESTATE SHOWS Why Selling Real Estate MUCH ACTIVITY IN Is Biggest Business Here PAST MONTH

By JOHN H. GERRIE

Prosperity Editor, Glendale Daily Press

Selling real estate is the BIG BUSINESS in Glendale today. Almost everyone seems to be in it. Even those engaged in other professions, trades or vocations, dabble in it. It is profitable business.

Not only are most of the fine new shops on Brand boulevard and Broadway occupied by realty promoters, brokers and agents, but many other shops ostensibly devoted to drugs, or hardware, or jewelry, or dry goods, or stationery, have a corner in each where the customer may sign up for a lot, a home or a business property along with his other purchases.

Never before have I seen so many realty selling organizations outside the very largest cities in the nation, and even in those cities the realty agencies were not so much in evidence as in Glendale. But, as already explained in these columns, there's a reason.

And they're all doing real land office business. That is because they have SOMETHING TO SELL to the buyers who are coming in at the rate of a thousand a month. No record is kept locally of real estate sales, but they must run into tens of thousands of dollars daily.

And here is a remarkable feature of the remarkable growth of this remarkable city:

THERE IS NO SPECULATIVE BOOM! The growth of Glendale is POSITIVE and DEFINITE and HEALTHY, notwithstanding that also it is unprecedentedly speedy.

Not to any unusual extent are choice lots being bought up to hold for higher prices. Nor are many buildings being put up for rental. Mostly, title is being taken by genuine home-seekers, who lose no time in erecting houses and becoming permanent residents.

Many of these home-seekers are recent arrivals from the east or middle-west, who, after looking the field over, have picked upon this valley city as the garden spot of California. Others have experimented with the crowded apartments or closely built bungalows of Los Angeles and have decided in favor of the scenic valley and mountain air.

So, you see, it is NOT a case of a real estate boom. It is a case of one thousand home-hungry Americans coming into this beautiful valley every month and delightedly crying: I WANT A HOME IN THIS GARDEN OF EDEN!

That's why the big business of Glendale today is the sale of real estate. And as many realty operators as there are, it keeps them busy showing lots, exhibiting subdivisions and signing purchasers on the dotted line.

But Glendale operators have something on most real estate promoters elsewhere. When they make a sale they sell MORE THAN LAND. They sell sunshine and protection from winds and fog; they sell broad boulevards and well paved streets; they sell good water and cheap light and low taxation; they sell proximity to a larger metropolis and unexcelled inter-urban service; they sell good schools and good libraries and good neighbors; they sell all the benefits of a great city blended with all the charms of a foothill country and they sell the finest permanent scenic cyclorama with which any city in America is surrounded. THAT'S WHAT THEY SELL!

After this truthful exposition of the realty situation, surely the writer may enter the sanctums of the local realty lords without being greeted by the kind of enthusiasm usually reserved for vendors of doubtful oil stock or "gold bricks." I am selling nothing but Glendale and I am SELLING IT TO THE WORLD! Local realtors may help in selling it—IF THEY WILL!

And this brings me to the point where I may ask: What will be the big business of Glendale when the real estate men have sold the last of their subdivisions to the last of the home-seekers? What provision is being made toward attracting capital here for commerce and industry?

I am told that an industrial district has been staked off on the San Fernando road, but, as yet, the industries are few. I am told that department store projectors are figuring upon sites on both Brand boulevard and East Broadway, but in the meanwhile the housewives of Glendale are making most of their purchases in Los Angeles. I am told that at least one and possibly two, first class hotels of moderate size are soon to be under construction in Broadway, but in the interim capitalists who might become interested in a large way, if they could be held here long enough, hurry through by automobile, if they come at all.

These are just suggestions that will be handled in more detail in succeeding articles. I mention them as indicating that there are opportunities for investment here other than in home sites. Any community that more than doubles itself in two years and promises to DOUBLE ITSELF AGAIN in another two years must have about it all kinds of opportunities for investors to put their money to work profitably, both for themselves and FOR THE COMMUNITY!

We will try to find out in succeeding articles what some of these opportunities are.

Thought and Action

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

People would be a little bit more careful in their choice of reading matter, of amusement places and of friends, if only they appreciated how inevitably the ideas which come to them from whatever they read, see or hear affect their behavior.

That their behavior should inevitably be affected thereby is because of the psychological law that thought always passes over into action. To be sure, it may not immediately pass into action. But soon or late the transition will take place.

As William James once remarked, in the course of a lecture he was delivering to an audience of teachers:

"As I talk here and you listen, it might seem as if no action followed. You might call it a purely theoretic process, with no practical result.

"But it cannot take place at all and leave your conduct unaffected. If not today, then on some far future day, you will answer some question differently by reason of what you are thinking now.

"We cannot escape our destiny, which is practical; and even our most theoretic faculties contribute to its working out."

Of course, there is such a thing as a conflict of ideas, so that while one kind of thinking impels to conduct in one direction, another kind may impel to conduct in a very different direction.

In such an event the victory usually rests with the ideas most frequently entertained. It is this which gives special importance to right choice of friends, books and places of amusement.

For obviously, the more one consorts with people of a given type, the more one reads books of a certain sort, the more one resorts to amusement places of a particular kind, the greater will be the frequency with which one's mind entertains the ideas derived therefrom.

And correspondingly greater the likelihood, then, that the conduct will be shaped by these ideas, rather than by opposite ideas which happen to be less frequently entertained.

One might wish that this were not the case. But wishing does not make it any the less the case.

And since it is the case—since conduct is chiefly determined by frequency of thinking, and the latter by frequency of contacts with people and things—the course one should take with regard to choice of friends, books, and amusement becomes unmistakably evident.

Choose only those that help most frequently to right thinking. Else be not surprised if you are forever cheated of success, prosperity and happiness.

Truths in Epigram

Men are not flattered by being shown that there has been a difference of purpose between the Almighty and them.

Abraham Lincoln (1809-1865).

Truth never fell dead in the streets; it has such affinity with the soul of men, the seed however broadcast will catch somewhere and produce its hundredfold.—Theodore Parker (1816-1860).

MODERNIZING JAPAN

It is not probable, that the new emperor of Japan will follow the footsteps of his ancestors. He lives in an atmosphere that they never knew. He does not accept or encourage the belief that he is of divine origin. He has been about the world a bit, having recently returned from a long tour. He has reached the age of 28. Napoleon had accomplished considerable when no older. If an educated man, his education designed to befit a ruler, is not competent to rule at 28, there is no likelihood that he ever will be competent.

The sooner the new emperor shall assume the initiative the better the other nations will be pleased. They would like to know if he is to instill into the Japanese some of the ideas he must have gathered as he mixed with the people of other races.

Japan has the prospect of a great future, if only it can lay aside its notion that force must control, and that Japan is one of the greatest of forces. With the desire of Japan to expand lawfully nobody has any quarrel. With its conviction that it must be ready to fight, and that its first duty lies in fighting a nation with which it might be friendly, there is scant patience.

It is to be hoped the young emperor will become a pacific equation in the affairs of the powers.

LINGERING SUPERSTITIONS

In an erudite presentation of facts concerning the stars, a learned astronomer adverted to the subject of astrology. It seems odd that there should have been occasion for such deviation from the real theme. Nevertheless there is a lingering belief in astrology.

Astrology never was a science. It never afforded a field for scientific speculation. It was based on complete and profound ignorance. Its traces of survival are rather amazing considering the general standard of intelligence.

The professor had come in contact, for example, with such questions as these, all asked in seriousness: "What house was Lloyd George born in?" "What sign rules the United States?" "What is the sign controlling England?" "What do the positions of the planets portend?" "Will the planets affect the disarmament congress?"

His reply that Lloyd George was born in a little house in Wales was the only possible correct one.

Positions of planets have no relation to human destiny. There are no "signs." The whole astrological business is a farrago of nonsense. Such was the substance of the professor's answers.

There is no established reason for believing that fortunes may be read in the grounds at the bottom of a tea cup. Faith in such readings, however, is as logical as faith in the influence of the planets.

MEN WITHOUT VISION

The important matter before the world for consideration is peace, and the industrial activity that must be the concomitant of peace. In the absence of reasonable prosperity, or the promise of it, there can be no happiness, and without happiness—meaning the placidity of contentment—there can be no abiding peace.

At the invitation of the President, delegates from the leading nations are in conference in Washington. The proceedings have been told. With the relation of facts, with the true definition of motives, there also has been given out a mass of spurious information, and the motives have been grossly and deliberately distorted.

Certain elements, not in the conference, but hanging with greedy ears at the outskirts, are present only for foul purpose. They desire to establish as common belief the theory that war and force are to be encouraged; that efforts to promote peace are not only futile but insincere. They picture all statesmen as knaves or dupes; all men but themselves as liars.

These are men without vision and without faith. They hold that the only salvation of the United States is in the mailed hand; in piling up the munitions of war; in being so strong as to defy all other peoples. They proclaim that this country ought to exist by itself, which is utterly impossible; that it ought to exist for itself, which is the doctrine of an immeasurable greed.

It happens that an individual for personal reason hates England. He is an individual controlling large instrumentalities for sowing the seeds of hate. To carry out his designs he is more than willing that the world shall exist in a continual state of preparedness for war, every nation regarding every other nation as an enemy. He is able to hire men of brains to prostitute their talents to his aims. Shamelessly they close their eyes to the vision they might see, and follow the leadership of the blind.

Men of vision have caused all the progress the race has made. To one, the steaming of a kettle, opened a vista none other had glimpsed. His thought changed the transportation of the world. Think of the visions that came to Edison, to Bell, and were wrought by them into material accomplishment! When the first flying machine rose eight feet from the ground, the ordinary mind was not impressed, but the inventor knew that the conquest of the air had been begun.

Men declare that there cannot be a peaceful globe, that strife must continue ever, just as it did while the continents were peopled by savages. They give no weight to the growth of culture, to the refining influence of the arts, to the propinquity that leaves no land remote, unless the unknown poles hidden by barriers of ice; to the enforced intimacy of modern conditions. In other words, they are without vision.

That the United States should elect to stand alone, isolated, unloved, while the mad race for superior armament burdens peoples already groaning under loads of debt, is not merely heartless, but it touches the depths of grotesque absurdity. It is not to be believed that civilization is willing thus to sacrifice the advances it has made. Continuation of such policy could mean nothing less than universal bankruptcy. With this, as Wells has stated often, the fabric of society would decay, disintegrate, and chaos and desolation would reign everywhere.

If a group of nations, including the United States, decide upon a policy of peace, such may be made the general policy. That this is not true, is the contention of men of no vision, and of such men only. Just as the first upward impulse of the early airplane meant ultimate victory, so the first small triumph of peace may presage a world victory, a new era.

Nobody could affirm H. G. Wells not to be a man of vision. There is little doubt, however, that the pessimism evoked by what he sees, and that which he thinks he sees, goes at times beyond the bound to which other thoughtful minds are willing to be led. Their inmost convictions are that human intelligence is not to be reckoned as so slight as to permit the plunge to ruin.

The debts of Europe are stupendous. Wells holds the opinion that this means wreck, the end of social order. Perhaps it does not mean wreck. Coupled with a farther outbreak of world war, it would mean all that Wells says. But why conclude that there is to be such outbreak? Why not, on the other hand, hold the opinion that war is to be outlawed? So to outlaw it is the purpose of the conference. So, too, was it the purpose of the League of Nations, that had the United States sustained it in principle, would have maintained peace indefinitely.

War is the great foe. The fear of war is the force that beats down the ambition and crushes the hope of Europe. Remove all apprehension of war, and the race would be left competent and alert, to efface the scars of conflict. Once more would harvest succeed the planting. Again would industry undertake to supply human needs.

Depreciation of currency abroad is calamitous. Never before has such a problem existed on a scale so huge. Money of value is essential to business. But large communities have faced just such a problem, and have won back to firm basis. If undivided energies could be devoted to work, to production, to manufacture, and the hideous mein of war no longer appear as a threat, but only as a fading memory, the visible wealth of the world, vast enough for the needs of the world, doubtless would find its way into the proper channels.

Even Wells, pre-eminently man of vision, may be misled by the vividness of the impression his eyes discern as he peers ahead.

The Flag Over Ehrenbreitstein

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I am sitting in the Coblenzerhof hotel and looking out of my window across the Rhine and seeing the Stars and Stripes flying over Ehrenbreitstein—that magnificent fortress of Germany which compared with England's Gibraltar.

That flag in that place means a great deal to the whole world, of which I have spoken in other articles. But in this one I would like to give you some idea of what it means to the United States itself.

A delegation of the United States Chamber of Commerce was over in Europe not long ago, and after inspecting conditions generally and carefully studying the situation, they reported that:

"In every country visited the opinion was expressed that neither western nor central Europe can be restored to a condition that promises hope and progress for the future without our assistance. There may be quite a few Americans who may say:

What of it? What have we to do with Europe? Why not pull out and let them settle their own affairs? Remember what Washington said about European entanglements!

Taking the last phrase first, I might suggest to those whose ideas are not altogether muddled that what Washington warned us against was a passionate attachment to one country against others, thus becoming embroiled in European quarrels. But there is little doubt that he would have hailed with delight our entrance into some sort of solid co-operation with all the nations of Europe, in order to bring about the peace of the world.

The flag flying over Ehrenbreitstein means that the United States has still left some idea of its duty toward mankind in general.

But the point I wish to bring out is that this flag also stands for the way out of our economic trouble and financial slump.

The situation is very clear to any business man with vision.

Our present condition of unemployment and depression is directly due to the fact that we have no outside market for the surplus goods we produce. We raise more wheat and cotton and make more steel and copper than we are able to consume at home, and we cannot sell it abroad.

We cannot sell it abroad because the money of the world is in chaos.

That chaos exists because of political unrest everywhere.

That political unrest is due to a hope of breaking up the treaty of Versailles.

That hope is fed by the fact that America will not come in.

The world has not yet given up hope entirely that America will join hands with the other nations and settle on some plan for the peace of the world.

And the flag flying over Ehrenbreitstein is the symbol of that last hope.

So long as it flies there, there remains some prospect that the nations of the earth will agree upon a settled program, and that having done this, the exchange situation will right itself. And when that takes place, America can once more sell her goods abroad and prosperity will come again.

So you see, there is a direct connection between the flag over Ehrenbreitstein and the prosperity of the American farmer in Iowa, the steel worker in Pittsburgh, and the cotton grower in the south.

THE LISTENING POST

I'm a patient old soul.
Or I try to be so. I chasten myself by each method I know.
I lose temper sometimes as everyone does, but after I'm angry I'm sorry I was.

I'm not any saint, I'm as human as you; and if I were a saint, tell me what I would do.
I'd have no good reason
For joy or for mirth
If I were a saint
On this imperfect earth.

I'd get very lonesome.
I'm sure that I would
Sitting off in my saintship
And just being good.
I'd be like a steak
That was cooked without salt
If I were a being
Without any fault.

But I try to be patient, as I said before.
I try to keep life from becoming a bore.
To life's petty failings I try to be blind.
And I may not succeed, but I want to be kind.

And when I've been mean,
As sometimes I may be,
I haven't a critic
Severer to me
Than I am myself, and I promise me then
I'll never be guilty of THAT thing again.

And I talk to myself
In a way, yes I do,
That I would not permit
From somebody like you.
I talk to myself
When I know me to blame
And if you could hear
You would say 'twas a shame.

I make me excuses sometimes as do you
For the petty mean things I've been tempted to do.
Or a robe of self-pity to wrap me up in,
But I know it is flimsy and wretched and thin.
And then I talk to me with words on my lips
That take off the skin of me, yes, in long strips.
And when with my scourge of myself I am through
I am just half of nothing divided by two.

So I don't want to fret.
I don't want to be quick
With the judgments I make.
For I want them to stick

As based on good reason,
Enduring for long
And I want you to tell me
Right out if I'm wrong.

I just want to declare
And my language is plain
I am tired of the antics
Of Ralph Obenchain.
I'm sick of the Roscoes
And Fatties and mush
And all the sad, nasty,
Unsavoury slush
That sob-sisters write and that headlines pen.
I wish I might read of it never again.

I'm tired of the Arthurs.
I worn out with news
That gives me the deepest
Of murderous blues.
And my ears they are cracked
With the clamor and din
Of the man in a million
And fair Madalynne.

I'm so sick of confessions
And crime-probes and clues,
And tilts of attorneys
And all of the news
That shrieks at me daily
From breakfast to bed
In language as lurid
As headlines are red.

"Will Madalynne wed him?
Is Arthur a nut?
Is Fatty a hero
Or something else but?
Has Sir Ralph a license?
What holiday eats
Did they feed all the Burches
And Roscoes and Peetes?"

And sometimes I wonder
And cannot quite guess
Who's got the dementia,
The fools or the press.
And I may be lazy
And mentally slow
But just who's gone crazy
I'm sure I don't know.

And for asinine antics
Pray who scores the beat.
The nuts in the cell.
Or the nuts on the street?

SONGS OF THE POETS

A Tryst—By Louise Chandler Moulton (1835-1908)

I will not break the tryst, my dear,
That we have kept so long,
Though winter and its snows are here,
And I've no heart for song.

You went into the voiceless night;
Your path led far away.
Did you forget me, Heart's Delight,
As night forgets the day?

Sometimes I think that you would speak
If still you held me dear;
But space is vast, and I am weak—
Perchance I do not hear.

Surely, howe'er remote the star
Your wandering feet may tread,
When I shall pass the undying bar
Our souls must still be wed.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

The national council of teachers of English has risen to make a few remarks. The understanding is clear, the motive excellent.

"If you know something and can't tell it, you are a dummy; if you know something and can only half tell it, you are a cripple. Don't be a dummy; don't be a cripple."

Many years ago a gentleman named Shakespeare expounded the beauty and sufficiency of the English language. He did this, not didactically, but by using the language.

There has been but a single Shakespeare, but there have been a number of writers who have made use of English to express great thought, and delicate shades of meaning, in words of great beauty.

The English language, difficult it is true, for the alien to conquer, is a virile instrument. But as a magnificent organ may be played upon so as to produce discord, so ignorance tortures English in to grotesque form. The fact is to be deplored, and there is no excuse for it.

There are certain words possessing in themselves intrinsic charm, and yet it is the arrangement of words into orderly sentences that renders them effective. To fulfill their office perfectly, they must be illumined by the idea they are employed to convey.

There are standards of excellence in composition to which the ordinary writer, albeit precisely correct in method, may not hope to attain. It is possible, however, to speak and write so to avoid all that is slipshod, inept, and unkempt. Proper use of English is the sure sign of culture.

Schools neglect the study of language, or go about the study in the wrong way. For example, they ignore the alphabet, and accord no value to spelling. Approximate correctness never is to be attained in such fashion.

United States troops are on the way home from Germany. Along with them are a number of wives and babies.

Chances are that the offspring of loyal American soldiers and thrifty German girls will be pretty good Americans.

Governor Small of Illinois has attacked the indictments against him.

Devoid of all the niceties of legal phrase, the reply amounts to charging the framers of the indictments with telling whoppers.

Japan has a new titular ruler and there is reason to expect many voluntary changes of policy.

The ruler who has just retired didn't rule except theoretically, and in this respect the one following him is likely to be different. He is a modern, not a conservative, and knows something of the world.

It was unkind for a Korean to ask the Japanese delegates right out in meeting, what they expected to do with his country.

For their reply to please him was impossible, and so they side-stepped, and this didn't seem to please him either.

Perhaps no great harm is done by teaching that the earth is flat, as is the custom in Zion City. The adult people who hear and accept the teaching are too ignorant to be made more so. They have reached the limit. If they have just enough sense to take care of the part of the earth that happens to be within their jurisdiction, making it produce, that is all that is to be expected of them.

At the same time there is a question if children having been born into the atmosphere of low intelligence, are not entitled to protection.

The leader who teaches his flock that the earth is flat may not by this act alone accomplish material harm, but he shows himself to possess a sterile mentality that must make him in all other respects unfit.

There is not the slightest element of surprise in rejection by the supreme court of the application of Mrs. Peete for a new trial. Her conviction was brought about through evidence that left no shadow of doubt as to her guilt.

Her crime was sordid, deliberate, and marked by a degree of brutality seldom present in the acts of hardened and habitual criminals.

As the time approaches for Newberry of Michigan to be wished on the senate by a partisan vote, there must be small comfort to the gentleman in the quality of comment that bears upon his prospect of vindication.

Whatever may have been the value of keeping Ford out of the senate, or whether the process had a value, are questions that do not need to be considered.

The point is that vast sums were expended to elect Newberry, that the law forbids such expenditure, and that the law does not seem to count.

COOPER RETURNS TO GLENDALE REPORT MONEY TIGHT

Many Coming to California to Spend Season in Their Homes in State

C. C. Cooper, president of the First National bank of Glendale, is home from a 'six weeks' trip east, where he was engaged in matters of business connected with the First National, and where he took to use his own language—"a post graduate course in banking."

Mr. Cooper found banking conditions anything but bright in the Middle West, and it is the belief of financiers in that section that the condition will prevail for at least a year. This is due largely to the low prices being paid the farmer for his products.

"California will get a big share of the tourists this winter, however," said Mr. Cooper, "and practically all of the tourists I met on the trains coming west were people who have winter homes here."

Mr. Cooper declared today that he is "five hundred dollars worth glad to be home." When he learned six weeks ago that business was going to take him east, he declared he would give $500 if he could get out of going. No one took the offer and now he feels at liberty to be $500 worth glad to be back.

NEW MEMBER DAY AT TUESDAY CLUB
This week's meeting was new members' day at the Tuesday Afternoon Club, when everybody else would know who was who, when business was forgotten and members did stunts for the general entertainment.

The members were seated alphabetically in about six groups, and each group was called upon for some stunt. Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the day, presiding and announcing the program, which was all fun except for two charming piano numbers played by Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, one a medley of national airs which she had arranged, the other her own composition. Chairs were so disposed as to leave a space in the center of the room, fronting the platform. The opening number was a milkmaid's quadrille, the dancers being garbed in cover-all aprons and sunbonnets, with masks before and behind, which made the effect very funny. They romped through it with great zest to lively music furnished by Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. A. H. Montgomery called the figures, the dancers being Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. W. P. MacMullin, Mrs. Chester Kling, Mrs. McBoyle, Mrs. A. H. Lapham and Mrs. F. J. McCann.

Mrs. Campbell then directed a few stunts, calling for a soprano and an alto singer from each group to come to the platform, where to the tune of "America," they sang the national air of St. Louis. Later she persuaded a considerable number in the audience to join her in a Japanese prayer. A quartet of ladies in the group to which Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward belonged put on a charade which began with a knee exercise, which every body interpreted as "leg" or "ped."

Refreshments of tea and home-made cake were then served, and a general social hour enjoyed, in which members had a chance to visit.

FINGER PRINTS ARE BEFORE ARBUCKLE JUDGES TODAY

State Will Show Them as Evidence of a Struggle in Bed-Room

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Drab weather and a drab court session reduced the interest in Roscoe Arbuckle's trial today from red fever heat to a blue chill. A part of the crowd which usually seeks admission every morning to Arbuckle's trial was diverted to the other room where Mrs. Jennie Neighbors was to be arraigned on a charge of perjury. She was arrested late yesterday at the instance of the district attorney who charged that she perjured herself in Arbuckle's behalf by testifying to the alleged presence of Virginia Rappe at Wheelers Hot Springs, a summer resort in Ventura county, California, in August, 1920. Two witnesses since have testified Miss Rappe was not there. Mrs. Neighbors, the middle-aged, expansive, somewhat talkative wife of a retired Los Angeles police officer, stoutly denied the charge against her and her attorneys promised to prove her innocence.

Just before court opened Assistant Prosecutor Milton T. U'ren with an aide, entered the court room and turned around a door taken from Arbuckle's room in the St. Francis hotel on which, outlined in aluminum dust shine the prints of the hands of Virginia Rappe and Roscoe Arbuckle, pointing as if in accusation, so it would face the jury. Two days ago a defense witness had turned the door to the wall and since then the tragic handprints have been concealed from view.

SLATER TOOK SLEEP NEARLY IN HOOSGOW

H. W. Slater of Taft, Calif., was taken to the police station Tuesday night by Officers Bathasar and Nunn. The man was found asleep in a large touring car parked on San Fernando road and could give no explanation of how he came into possession of a car that, according to the registration card, was the property of Mrs. Erskine of Calexico. Slater was held at the station while Mrs. Erskine was called on the telephone. She assured the officials that Slater was all right and authorized him to drive her car to Calexico from the northern part of the state. Slater was released and allowed to continue his journey.

without being able to fit either to the next scene, in which one of the ladies ate a peanut. "Legitimate" was guessed and pronounced wrong. Yielding to the entreaties of Mrs. Meeker who plead brain fog, Mrs. Hayward announced that the word was "negotiate."

Mrs. Charles Turck told funny stories exceedingly well, and the program ended with a spelling match. Refreshments of tea and home-made cake were then served, and a general social hour enjoyed, in which members had a chance to visit.

CHRISTIAN CIRCLE CLUB MEETING

The Christian Circle Club, which includes some of the "peppiest" girls in Glendale, met Tuesday evening for its weekly Bible study and supper. Fifty-seven members were present.

Roll call was taken according to squads, squad No. 4 being in the lead. Following the business meeting, the regular Bible study was taken up, which was enjoyed by all.

GLENDALE GUEST AT PASADENA CLUB

The reciprocity day meeting of the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena was held Tuesday at the Shakespeare Club house. Dinner was served at noon to about 600 guests. During the dinner, interesting speeches were made by Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, vice-president at large of the state, who represented the president, Mrs. Fitzgerald; Mrs. Charles Wiley of Long Beach, state auditor; Mrs. Trehella, vice-president of the Los Angeles district, and Mrs. Charles Ashcroft of Pasadena.

After the wonderful dinner was served, the drama section presented two clever plays, which were greatly enjoyed. The guests from Glendale were Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, Mrs. R. E. Chase and her guest, Mrs. A. P. Findley.

JAMES PEARSONS GIVEN SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Pearson of 700 North Louise street were surprised on Tuesday night, when a group of neighbors called in honor of their fifteenth wedding anniversary. A large box was brought in, which was thought to contain a cake, but when opened they found fifteen gifts. The evening was spent in playing cards, after which refreshments were served. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Teager and Miss Teager, Fred Smith and mother, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Mary Moore.

LADIES UNITE TO MAKE GARMENTS

A group of ladies of the Friends' church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur C. Brown, 201 West Milford street. The day was spent in making garments for children in central and eastern Europe. These ladies meet one day each week and sew for the Friends' service committee, which is helping in the Far East. There are four different groups and each group has four ladies who take turns serving the luncheon. This week those in charge were Mrs. Lindley Dille, Mrs. W. Haight, Mrs. Leonard Phelps and Mrs. Arthur C. Brown. Last month the Friends' church fed 60,000 children one meal a day, this work being done through the American Friends' service committee.

The guests present Tuesday were Mrs. Dr. Wendell White of Los Angeles, Mrs. Harold Jacobs, Mrs. W. H. Haight, Mrs. E. Haight, Mrs. Roda Wright, Mrs. Bessie Imms, Mrs. Harrison Prose, Mrs. Dr. Allan, Mrs. E. C. Hubbard, Mrs. Lindley Dille, Mrs. Leonard Phelps, Mrs. Anna Panning, Mrs. Dr. Daugherty, Mrs. Samuel Frazee and Rev. and Mrs. Tillman Hobson of Pasadena, pastor of Friends' church. A great deal of work is accomplished at these all-day meetings and they hope to relieve some of the suffering in Europe.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HEADS MEETING

Tuesday night, district officers of the Christian Endeavor and society presidents met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stoler, 339 West Colorado street, to discuss C. E. affairs. Plans were made for a banquet to be given at the First Presbyterian church February 17, and a committee of arrangements was appointed.

A committee was also appointed to prepare a slate of officers, to be voted upon at that meeting. The remainder of the evening was devoted to a discussion of the four-square campaign and in reports of how it will be carried on in the different societies. At the close of the session, refreshments were served and a social and musical hour was enjoyed.

Those present were Fern Peters, Francis Musser, Marjorie Yarrick, Mary Stanley, Nancy St. Clair, Olive Rapp, Margaret Overton, Margery Smith, Walter Sullivan, Cyrus Galley, Guy B. Mize, Leslie Bennett, James D. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Stoler and Miss Carol Duncan.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS—how often, and lightly we speak of it!—but do you really know whence it leads—or how to follow it? It must always have its start in a Savings Bank—for it is there one learns the value of money—the necessity of making it work for you—and the fascination of its earned interest. It is the pennies saved that are eventually counted as a man's riches!

The most wonderful gift in this world that you can give your children is a sense of saving! Point out to them the Road to Success—the half-hidden trail of which you may have missed in the mad rush for dollars, while the pennies, of which a dollar is composed, were forgotten! By opening a savings account at the First Savings Bank of Glendale—just around the corner on East Broadway from the First National Bank—you will be instilling in them that instinct for saving. They will then have started on the much sought-for Road to Success—and they will have no difficulty in following the trail once it has been pointed out to them. PULLMAN'S MANSION UNDER HAMMER AT AUCTION

Palace Car King's Collection of Art Is Sold in Chicago to Collectors

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—One of Chicago's palatial residences, the George M. Pullman mansion, went under the hammer today. The entire contents, including the valuable antiques, hand carved furniture, and paintings were open for bids.

During the World's Fair, it was one of the show places of the city. Many prominent persons in American affairs, and titled visitors from Europe, were entertained there by the inventor of the Pullman car. It was the center of the social activities of the city.

Included in the sale will be the Royal Sèvres plates—costing $1,000 a dozen—brought from Paris by the late Mrs. Pullman. Even the imported hardwood furnishings, kept in condition each year by an expert from New York, were stripped for sale. Turn out, too, were the rich, rare panelings of rose, mahogany and teakwood.

Highest bidders will get the paintings, the Venetian scene by Villegas, valued at $2,000, several by Simoni, appraised at $1,000 each, and paintings by Ziem, Lucien W. Powell, William Hart, Martin Rico, Gallagos, Villard, Parosi and Aoki, the famous Japanese artist—all open today for the first time to curiosity seekers, bargain hunters, dealers in antiques.

Ornate Chinese and French tapestries, embroidered gold-cloth draperies, valued at $1,000 each, the Ambusson carpet, woven in France to match the mural paintings on the white and gold Louis XV. drawing room, at a cost of $10,000, will go before the unsentimental hammer of the auctioneer. And then the Dutch marqueterie, Capi de Monti porcelain, Satsuma vases, worth $2,000, gold medallions, silver bronze chandeliers, even the marble fountain in the conservatory, have been inven-

SEEK THE GERMS IN YOUR OWN BRAIN

Irish Surgeon Says Genius Is Squirreling Germs in Brain Cells

LONDON, Nov. 29.—According to Dr. S. T. Irwin, a prominent Irish surgeon, genius is nothing more than the product of a germ that gingers up the gray matter in our brains.

The microbes of various diseases, such as tuberculosis, gastric troubles and appendicitis get into our brain cells, kick up a shindy there and make us think bright thoughts and do bright things.

It is an intriguing thought that if you are healthy you cannot be clever, and genius is to illness near allied.

What a hive of microbes Shakespeare must have had! And Charlie Chaplin must be full of complaints. Look at his poor feet—all caused by the genius rioting round in his cerebellum.

The more one looks at the doctor's idea the more there seems to be in it. For example, who are the strongest and healthiest men in the world? Dempsey, Carpentier, Hackenschmidt and the Terrible Turk.

Now, it is asked, has any one of these gentlemen ever written a great play or a sonata? Of course not. Could Hackenschmidt have written Gray's "Elegy"? Why, he doesn't even know the language.

As a composer Dempsey isn't worth a row of beans, even though he does occasionally put people to sleep.

Then the other end of the scale? Who are world's geniuses? Shakespeare, Titian, Botticelli, Wagner, Beethoven, Franklin and Napoleon. Cast your eye over the list and what do you find? Every one of them has died of something or other.

A $5,000 pipe organ, gold Louis XV. screens, will go with the $2,000 clock set in the Egyptian room.

The home will probably be made into a factory site, according to officers of the Northern Trust company, administrators of the estate.

Limit the Army But Don't Scrap It, Says War Hero

Sergeant Samuel Woodfill and Mrs. Samuel Woodfill

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—This is the story of the distinguished son of a man who raised his boy to be a soldier.

Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, chosen by General Pershing as the greatest single hero of the World War, can say of his own soldier father that he learned about shooting from him.

The rest—cleaning out three machine gun nests and killing nineteen Germans—was "just a morning's work," in the words of the extremely modest hero, who wears two Congressional Medals of Honor, as well as various other decorations.

Sergeant Woodfill and his wife recently made their first visit to New York, the guests of Justice and Mrs. Philip J. McCook. They came up from Washington, where the First U. S. Hero represented the infantry at the burial of the unknown soldier.

"Just the efficient training of the regular army," explains this remarkable soldier, as he modestly attempts to shift the credit for his acts.

Sergeant Woodfill is a six-foot Hoosier and may well be added to the list of talent that has come out of Indiana.

"I was twenty years with the regular army," he says. But he does not complain that mention of his splendid deeds of October, 1918, lay buried in army records for three years.

Woodfill wears his laurels well. He is striking in appearance and somewhat serious in manner. There is about him the steadfastness of the pioneer. During the war he was made a lieutenant and promoted to a captaincy for heroism. Upon returning to this country he re-enlisted at Fort Thomas, Ky., as a sergeant, but it is hoped that he will be returned to the status of captain.

In the McCook household there was excitement among the three young sons of the family concerning the hero who was coming to visit their father, Daniel, who had reached the dignity of twelve years, was more reserved than John Sheldon, who is eight, just as John did not give way to the emotions that racked Philip. Philip possessed the jumpy heart that ever beat under a five-year-old size sweater. He finally had to have his hat and coat put on so he could do sentinel duty outside the door of his dwelling till the great guest came. Sergeant Woodfill probably will never have a more sincere admirer.

From the sergeant's vivacious young wife comes another type of testimony. Mrs. Woodfill says her husband does not disdain to help about the house or with the dishes, and is very good at "kitchen police."

Mrs. Woodfill, a Kentuckian, is a descendant of Daniel Boone. They have been married four years.

Sergeant Woodfill was prevailed upon to discuss some of his experiences.

"I can remember in the Argonne how the Germans were sweeping the ground with a hail of bullets. One of them opened up on me when I was within ten yards of him. I got him. The next was about thirty-five yards off. I had to crawl along on my toes and elbows and throw myself down flat every now and then. After I fired about ninety rounds of ammunition it gave out. My pistol jammed.

"There was some American tool on the ground, a 'mattock,' such as engineers use—it's like a pick. I went after them with that—and that's all."

"That's all"—says the greatest hero of the United States, who is palpably a man of action and not conversation. But he does say of the funeral at Arlington of the unknown warrior:

"That moved me deeply—it made a tremendous impression."

"Would you like to see the army, as well as the navy, scrapped?" he was asked.

"Not altogether—I think we need a regular army of soldiers. For police, at least. Soldiers should be in international police."

"But it might be a good thing to limit the army."

Sergeant Woodfill is the son of John Samuel Woodfill, a Mexican

BIG CHRISTMAS NOW FORECASTED OVER UNITED STATES

Big Department Store Man Says Santa's Pack Will be Heavy This Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Santa's pack will be well filled this Christmas despite present unemployment and business depression, according to managers of the big department stores here. This optimistic prediction is the result of a careful watch of buying tendencies and a comparison with sales of other years.

The gradual but certain upward swing of the business cycle is clearly evidenced in the constant increase in the number of daily purchases by the public—an evidence that both men and women are profiting by the merchants' advice to do their Christmas shopping early.

A few short months ago merchants were complaining that the public was buying strictly in accordance with its immediate needs and confining purchases to necessities. Luxuries became a drug on the market and could hardly be sold at any price. Now, however, these same merchants are the first to tell the world that good times are returning.

Big Sales Now

With the beginning of cold weather came a strong demand for clothing, underwear, furs and shoes. Canned food, coal, meats and rugs were also in heavy demand. Heating appliances, particularly electrical devices, find a ready sale, whereas there has been a very small turnover of these products during the last months.

Department stores, gauging their Christmas sales by present indications, have begun to hire additional clerks and to replenish their stocks in anticipation of the holiday business, which, they believe, will surpass that of any pre-war years. This has contributed toward relief of the unemployment situation. Increased business in many lines has provided work for thousands who have been walking the streets for many months. As these workers are enabled to draw their salaries again, they become potential buyers, thus aiding the universal movement toward rehabilitation of business.

War Time Business

"During the war our sales reached tremendous heights," said the manager of one of New York's largest and most widely-known department stores. "We hired hundreds of additional clerks to take care of this increased business. When the period of depression set in we were forced to let a great part of our sales force go in order to adjust our store to the general scheme of retrenchment. Business has unquestionably been very bad for some time. But we are all looking forward to big holiday season sales, and if we can take present sales as a criterion I believe we will find prosperity ushered in on a velvet cushion about the first of December. Today we are selling articles that two months ago were becoming dusty on our shelves. We are actually turning over our stocks, which seemed impossible in June. We have already hired a number of extra sales people, and we have a list from which we will take on more and more as business improves. We are not taking on a big force out of any motive of altruism; we are taking on additional sales people because of the requirements of our increased business."

"We hear many people blaming the unemployment situation upon the merchants of the country. As a matter of fact, the workers themselves are really to blame. During the war, while they were getting the high wages, they neglected to provide against a rainy day. We were forced to pay salaries out of all proportion to the value of services rendered, and then, when he had to cue our force and, in some instances, reduce salaries, we were charged with niggardliness and with a lack of interest in the welfare of the workers."

"But I think all this is over now. The holiday business will be large, and this will give new impetus to the better business movement already under way."

BIRD STOPPED CLOCK.

PENDLETON, Ore., Nov. 30.—Local citizens awake during the early hours were amazed when the faithful old clock, which has adorned the tower of the county court house since 1888, tolled out 12 o'clock. Investigation revealed that a bird had perched on one of the hands at midnight and that the clock was unable to record the hours until the interloper had departed.

SULPHUR CLEARS ROUGH, RED SKIN

Face, Neck and Arms Easily Made Smooth, Says Specialist

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthosulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Menthosulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

APPLICATIONS FOR STATE AID NOW IN ADJUTANT'S HANDS

James F. McBryde Will Aid Ex-Service Men to Make Application

Adjutant James F. McBryde, of the Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, has received application blanks whereby veterans of the World War may apply for aid from the State of California under the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase act. Adjutant McBryde will assist former service men in the making out and forwarding applications for this assistance.

According to the regulations governing the loaning of money to veterans, the first appropriation of $2,000,000 will be sufficient to care for the disabled veterans and provisions are being made to make another appropriation of approximately $10,000,000 to care for veterans who had lived in the state for one year previous to enlistment in the United States army but were not disabled while in the service.

Any veteran who served in the United States army, navy or marine corps during the World War is eligible to aid under this act. Any veteran can make application at present for aid under the Veterans' Farm and Home Loan. Purchase act but under the regulations governing loaning money, preference will be given the disabled and those who have lived in the state for more than a year previous to enlisting.

To obtain help under this act the veteran must not have secured aid under the California Veterans' Welfare, or of any of the educational opportunities furnished by any act adopted at the Forty-fourth session of the legislature, as has received a bonus or adjusted compensation from the state. No veteran shall receive the benefits of this act who would thereby become the holder of land exceeding in value, in the case of a farm, the sum of $7500, or in the case of a home or home site, the sum of $5000. To secure this loan the applicant must make an initial payment on the property of 10 per cent in the case of a farm loan and in the case of a home or home site loan, the initial payment shall be 5 per cent. The applicant must also agree to live on the place and make it his permanent home within six months after securing it. He must further agree to keep the buildings and fences on the property in order and keep the buildings insured against fire. No property purchased under the terms of the contract entered into with the state can be transferred, assigned or mortgaged without the written consent of the board until the entire purchase price has been paid.

HELLO AND GOOD-BY

Hello and Good-by! The beginning and end.
The hand-clasp and smile of a friend to a friend.
The laugh on the lips and the tear in the eye.
The morning and evening, Hello and Good-by.
The day has its duties and tasks are to do,
There's coming and going for me and for you,
And sometimes we're merry and sometimes we sigh
We greet and we part with Hello and Good-by!

Hello at the morning, when dawn on the hills;
When day with its promise the glad spirit thrills.
When new dreams awaken and glad songs are sung,
And new hopes unfold and new banners upflung.
So your hand in mine on the road to the end,
And we shall know better the meaning of friend,
And tasks shall be light for the glory we bring
Of love to our labor and songs that we sing.

And then at the dusk, when the end of the road
Comes near and we rest, and the weight of the load
Is lifted and laid there, what memories rise;
Of joy in the journey, if tears mist the eyes;
So, Friends of the Road, if we find at the end
The treasure that lies in the heart of a friend,
What joy thrills the heart if a tear clouds the eye!
What gladness between the Hello and Good-by!

JACKSON WILL TALK TO SCHOOLS ABOUT MAIL SERVICE

Nothing Will Be Done Until New Official Takes Reins of Office

Superintendent George Hallett of the Glendale branch of the Los Angeles postoffice has received no notification regarding the cooperation of postoffice officials with the schools in better acquainting the students in the matter of mailing letters and parcels.

The post masters all over the country have received a communication from Postmaster General Hays asking them to give talks to school children on the above matter and tell just what regulations are required in the mailing of parcels, papers and letters.

According to Superintendent Hallett, the matter of cooperation with the schools of Glendale will in all probability be taken up with Capt. B. Ripley Jackson, new postmaster of Glendale when this city is declared an independent postoffice on December 1. According to Superintendent Hallett, postal officials have no time to give any talks at the schools until after the holiday rush of mail is ended. When the holiday mail rush is over, Captain Jackson will take charge of the postoffice as postmaster and will not doubt be given instructions from Washington, D. C., in the matter of cooperation with the schools.

PARADE OF PUPILS BEEN ABANDONED

A meeting of the general committee of arrangements for Glendale's celebration of American Education week was held Tuesday afternoon at the high school when reports from representatives of the city schools and of high school sub-committees were received. These were followed by discussion which lasted until 6 o'clock.

The result was a reluctant surrender of the plan to have an automobile parade of all the children enrolled in the schools of Glendale and the high school for the reason that machines sufficient in number are not available. An effort will now be made to arrange for a parade which will include the high school and the seventh and eighth grades of the city schools, the other grades to be dismissed at the parade hour and assemble at points where they can witness the parade.

The line of march will probably include portions of Brand, Broadway and Glendale avenues, but has not been definitely decided upon by Mr. Lockwood, who is in conference with Chief of Police Martin in regard to the matter. Thus far there has been no alteration of the plan to have the parade take place on Monday.

WHAT STARTED CHIPS BEAVER THINKING?

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Nobody ever decided who had the best time at Chips Beaver's housewarming, the two little boys who furnished the feast (Tommy Peele and Louie Thomson, of course), or the Woodstock who ate it, or Chips Beaver himself.

Perhaps it was Chips. When things got going so lively the rabbits actually danced their shadow-dance with the moon and didn't care who laughed at them; when Tad Coon sang a song that all but tumbled Chaik Jay off of Louie's shoulder because he put up his nose and tooted through it like a little tin trumpet; when old Dr. Muskrat told one of his famous tales, Chips didn't feel the last bit strange with any of them. But he did feel strange with the good things they were eating.

Think of it—he'd never tasted a bite of tame food, not even a grain of corn! As a matter of fact he didn't entirely like it. There's so much more taste in spicy wild seeds and roots. What he mostly cats is bark, the sweet bark of birch and maple, or the juicy lining of a cottonwood, or even the bitter willow. Nibble Rabbit and Dr. Muskrat like. He showed the doctor a fine big her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Huston, who have been in Glendale for several months.

Misses Mildred and Winifred Williams of 349 West Garfield avenue spent the week-end at the home of their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Hollingsworth of Yorba Linda, formerly of Glendale. They returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hurlbert of 348 West Park avenue have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Mann and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hanson from Detroit, Mich., who have come here to make their home. Miss Marguerite Rowe of Syracuse, N. Y., is also their house guest.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Townsend of 807 North Brand boulevard returned Monday night from a hunting trip to Course Gold, which is on the road to Yosemite. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Bradley of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Gribble of Bakersfield. They all came home with plenty of quail.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson are entertaining tonight at their home, 641 East Harvard street, with a dinner and card party.

Mrs. A. L. Baird of 637 North Orange street is returning today from a month's trip to visit friends in San Francisco, Oakland and Santa Rosa.

LOYD GEORGE WILL ASK AMERICA FOR HELPING HAND

Onrushing Calamity in Europe Will Be Picture When Premier Arrives

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Lloyd George will come to Washington with an appeal to America to waken to the onrushing calamity in Europe, and to aid, his friends here said today.

While Lloyd George will not seek to inject the subject into the arms conference proper, he will ask America, substantially "what are you going to do about it? Have you no interest in the matter, especially as it may touch you later?"

He may even go so far as to suggest a system whereby Germany would virtually pawn itself to America, with Britain going surety. He will strive to show that America's pocketbook is involved; that the present depression throughout this country cannot end until the financial and economic stagnation of Europe has been relieved.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pendleton and daughter Jane, of 376 Myrtle street, have rented a home at Manhattan beach for the winter. They have rented their Glendale home.

Miss Margaret Goetz of Los Angeles was the luncheon guest Tuesday of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, 123 West Elk avenue. Miss Goetz organized the "Three Arts" club in Los Angeles.
